		archaeological resources. York Region is located on treaty territories of the Haudenosaunee, Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation and Williams Treaties First Nations. Today, the Chippewas of Georgina Island First Nation is located both on and off the shores of Lake Simcoe on Snake, Fox and Georgina islands. York Region’s more recent European influenced cultural heritage is evident in buildings like the Sharon Temple in East Gwillimbury, Hillary House in Aurora, Newmarket’s Quaker Meeting House and the Village of Maple’s octagonal Jacob Rupert House. This legacy is also reflected in heritage streetscapes like Main Street in Old Unionville, Yonge Street in downtown Richmond Hill and in Thornhill (Markham/Vaughan) as well as other resources such as waterways and rail lines. A number of festivals celebrate York Region’s heritage and culture and elements of York Region’s cultural heritage, including archaeology, are documented in local museums. This diverse cultural heritage enhances quality of life and helps make York Region unique. The policies of this section are designed to promote and celebrate the cultural heritage activities and to conserve cultural heritage resources, including those of Indigenous cultural heritage and archaeological sites.
Table 3: 20	2.4.6	Revise policy as follows: 2.4.6: “To support local municipal efforts in promoting heritage awareness, establishing heritage conservation districts and integrating identified cultural heritage landscapes into official plans and engaging with Indigenous communities in these efforts, where appropriate.”
